Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-12 are presented for examination on the merits.

Priority

It is noted that this application appears to claim subject matter disclosed in prior Application No. 60/226,476, filed 8/18/2000. A reference to the prior application must be inserted as the first sentence of the specification of this application or in an application data sheet (37 CFR 1.76), if applicant intends to rely on the filing date of the prior application under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) or 120.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it is a general statement about online bidding and fails to provide a clear and concise narrative of the disclosure as claimed by the applicant.

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 3-5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 3 and 4 recites the limitations "the project" in line 2 of each claim. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claims, because there is no mention of a "project" in Claim 1.

Claim 5 recites the limitation "the group" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim, because there is no mention of a "group" in Claim 1.

Claim 7 recites the limitation "the sponsor" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim, because there is no mention of a "sponsor" in Claim 1.

The applicant is advised that the examiner has provided the above examples as a guide for the applicant to review all claims for insufficient antecedent basis and amend accordingly. It appears that the applicant introduces new terminology in the dependent claims to perhaps refer back or define an element of the independent claim. Moreover, the applicant should review the claims for proper grammatical form and amend accordingly.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3621

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by DiRienzo,

U.S. Patent 6,006,191.

As per the following claims, DiRienzo discloses:

1. A method of bidding for outsourced pharmaceutical or medical device good or service for a client requesting said goods and services, said method comprising: (a) posting a proprietary template descriptive of said good or service to an interactive online bidding site; (b) accepting from a first entity a bid to provide said good or service from a registered provider of said good or service (column 11, lines 50-58).
2. The method according to claim 1 further comprising, in response to a request from a second entity to the server identifying a given good or service up for bid, identifying a current set of bids for said good or service (column 11, line 58-column 12, line 11).
3. The method according to claim 1 where the client can observe live bidding for the project on the internet (column 19, lines 13-43).
4. The method according to claim 1, wherein said provider of a good or service is a contract service organization with expertise in the project under consideration (column 16, lines 30-45; column 22, line 1).

5. The method according to claim 1, wherein said client is a member selected from the group consisting of a developer or manufacturer of a medical device, a developer or manufacturer of a medical procedure, a developer or manufacturer of a diagnostic agent, a developer or manufacturer of a therapeutic agent and combinations thereof (column 7, lines 62-65; column 26, lines 42-50).

6. The method according to claim 1 where access to the web site is by secure means and bidding process is restricted to authorized users only (column 20, lines 26-47)

7. The method according to claim 1 where the identity of the sponsor may be optionally disclosed to bidders or potential bidders (column 11, lines 17-50).

8. The method according to claim 1, wherein potential bidders are notified through an electronic message of the availability of all new auctions or only those auctions matching a predetermined profile of contract service organization abilities or interests (figure 5 and associated text; column 22, lines 28-35).

9. The method according to claim 1, where potential bidders determine the availability of new auctions by viewing a web page showing all new auctions or only those auctions matching a predetermined profile of contract service organization abilities or interests (column 18, lines 1-35).

10. A computer site for a supplier of a good or service to bid on a client request for bids on said good or service, said site comprising at least one web computer server serving a plurality of computer browsers and enabling said browsers with to participate in at least one bidding cycle, wherein said at least one bidding cycle is initiated by a client requesting entry of bids by suppliers of a good or service, said web server communicating with a separate database computer separated from said web server by a firewall, said database computer being accessible to said at least one web computer server to allow retrieval of information relevant to said good or service open for bid, said web server computer including application software for bidding on said good or service open for bid by: (a) displaying to each said browser during a bidding cycle a parameter for said good or service up for bid; (b) displaying to each said browser a current bid for said good or service up for bid, and a measure of time remaining in said bidding cycle; (c) providing a user control for indicating instructions to enter a bid to provide said good or service open for bid; and (d) updating to each said browser said current bid and said measure of time remaining in said bidding cycle to provide dynamic feedback to each said browser (column 9, line 36-column 10, line 38).

11. The computer site according to claim 10 wherein said database computer is accessible to said at least one web computer server to allow retrieval of information relevant to said supplier of a good or service (figure 5 and associated text).

12. A system for an interactive electronic Exchange between a client desiring to acquire a good or service and a provider of said good or service, said Exchange providing information to said provider about said good or service desired by said client and further allowing said supplier to enter a bid for providing said good or service, said system comprising: (a) a host computer network including a database server that electronically stores and organizes data relevant to said good or service; (b) a display component for displaying information to a user, said display component connected to a wide area network for inputting data about a first good or service desired by a client, wherein said good or service has a first parameter associated therewith; and (c) a server connected to a wide area network for storing said first parameter column 19, lines 25-67; figure 5 and associated text).

Examiner has pointed out particular references contained in the prior arts of record in the body of this action for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant, in preparing the response, to consider fully the entire references as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior arts or disclosed by the examiner.
